

TEAM UNITY IS A MUST

"THE LAST THING ANY TEAM NEEDS IS STRIFE"

Bobby Bogard

"It's only in an atmosphere of unity that success emerges. Leaders evoke one or the other. Many times, a team's relational breakdown can be attributed to the leader's relational equity or lack therefore."

JOHN MAXWELL
Author & Pastor

"PEOPLE WILL NEVER CARE HOW MUCH A LEADER KNOWS UNTIL THEY KNOW HOW MUCH THEY CARE."

A STRONG LEADER IS VISIONARY BUT ALSO RELATABLE.

A GOOD LEADER IS PRESENT NOT DISTRACTED.

- There is a rhythm about them that releases affirmation, which is more than platitude, and therefore meaningful to the hearer.
- They walk slow and deliberate; not with a demeanor about them that says, "I'm too busy right now."
- Connected leaders value relationship over systems and processes. Their words and actions are encouraging and thoughtful.
- When someone speaks they listen with their heart as much as their heads.

CONTINUED...

- They do not issue compliments flippantly, the old “good job” ploy. No, they dig deeper with their compliments; into the fiber and heart of the person receiving it. They recognize the skills, the impact, the comradery, or some other significant attribute that a contributor offered which made the team a success.
- The leader must understand what problems are being solved by the team. Understanding what the team does well keeps everyone involved and focused on what’s important. It helps the company stay narrow and sharp rather than broad and inefficient.

SIMPLE BUT NOT SIMPLE

The key to a leader’s relational success, and ultimately the team’s relational culture, rests in the two greatest commandment; love God and love your neighbor. These two directives speak to the mindset and motivation of the leader.

COMMAND ONE

- When leaders love God they experience the capacity to care and to discipline. The team appreciates the dynamics of each because they produce accountability with respect.

COMMAND TWO

- When the leader loves others they remain grounded. Their understanding of helping others succeed is broadened. Pride and entitlement lose their stronghold.

RESULT

- The team responds with a desire to see their leader flourish and thrive. Why? “Because people will never care how much their leader knows until they know how much their leader cares.”

REMEMBER

"TEAM UNITY A MUST"

LEADERSHIP STUDY GUIDE

TEAM UNITY IS A MUST

"THE LAST THING ANY TEAM NEEDS IS STRIFE."

Bobby Bogard

"It's only in an atmosphere of unity that success emerges. Leaders evoke one or the other. Many times, a team's relational breakdown can be attributed to the leader's relational equity or lack therefore."

JOHN MAXWELL
Author & Pastor

"PEOPLE WILL NEVER CARE HOW MUCH A LEADER KNOWS UNTIL THEY KNOW HOW MUCH THEY CARE."

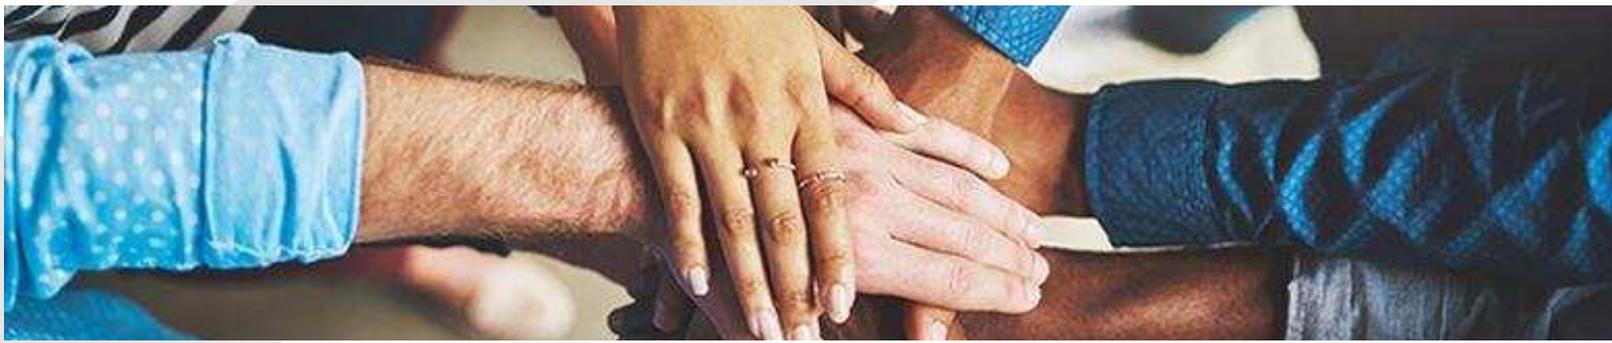

A STRONG LEADER IS VISIONARY BUT ALSO _____ .

A GOOD LEADER IS PRESENT NOT _____ .

- There is a _____ about them that _____ affirmation which is more than platitude, and therefore meaningful to the hearer.
- They walk _____ and _____ ; not with an demeanor about them that says, "I'm too busy right now."
- _____ leaders value _____ over systems and processes. Their words and actions are encouraging and thoughtful.
- When someone speaks they listen with their _____ as much as their heads.

CONTINUED...

- They do not issue compliments flippantly, the olde “good job” ploy. No they dig _____ with their compliments; into the fiber and heart of the person receiving it. They recognize the skills, the impact, the camaraderie, or some other significant attribute that a contributor offered which made the team a success.
- The leader must understand what problems are being solved by the team. Understanding what the team does well keeps everyone _____ and _____ on what’s important. It helps the company stay narrow and sharp rather than broad and inefficient.

SIMPLE BUT NOT SIMPLE

The key to a leader’s relational success, and ultimately the team’s _____ culture, rests in the two greatest commandment; love God and love your neighbor. These two directives speak to the _____ and _____ of the leader.

COMMAND ONE

- When leaders love God they experience the _____ to care and to discipline. The team appreciates the dynamics of each because they produce accountability with respect.

COMMAND TWO

- When the leader loves others they remain grounded. Their understanding of helping others succeed is broadened. _____ and _____ lose their stronghold.

RESULT

- The team responds with a desire to see their leader _____ and _____. Why? “Because people will never care how much their leader knows until they know how much their leader cares.”

REMEMBER

"TEAM UNITY A MUST."

